While his mother is doing the ironing, Little Billy wanders into the Forest of Sin where he discovers the tiny Minpins that populate the trees. They are preyed upon by a typically horrible Dahl monster and it's little Billy who outwits it, causing it to blunder into a pool, extinguish its cruel fire and drown. The tape is carefully and imaginatively produced with authentic sounds and atmospheric music underscoring the story. Little Billy's quick breathing as he runs away from the monster is particularly effective. Richard Pasco's professional narration really does draw the listener into the Minpin world.
